Peer reviewed articles (or refereed articles) primarily appear in academic, scientific or other scholarly publications and are judged by an impartial panel of two or more experts in the field. The judgment criteria for any peer reviewed article varies depending on the publication and subject matter, but peer reviewers (or referees) primarily focus on ensuring that an article is factually accurate, provides new information in a specified field and meets the proofreading and editorial guidelines of the publication.

Peer reviewed artikels verskyn gewoonlik in akademiese, wetenskaplike of ander navorsingspublikasies en word nagegaan deur ‘n onafhanklike paneel bestaande uit twee of drie kennis in die veld. Die kriteria waarvolgens die artikel geevalueer word verskil van publikasie en onderwerpsveld, maar die paneel fokus gewoonlik daarop dat die inligting feitlik akkuraat is, en dat dit nuwe inligting in die spesifieke veld is. Hulle kyk dan ook dat dit voldoen aan redaksionele en proeflees riglyne van die publikasie.

Anxiety disorders in children - GP's
Author: Diane Mallaby

Anxiety is one of the many normal human emotions that can play a helpful and motivating role in our lives. It's what gets us out of bed in the mornings and motivates us to work hard and produce our best. Having the 'right amount of anxiety' to maximise our potential is the goal.
