1. What is a DATABASE?...

A library database is an electronic catalogue or index, often contains information about published items, and is searchable.

Dit is 'n Elektroniese katalogus of indeks, wat meeste van die tyd inligting rondom gepubliseerde materiaal verskaf en 'n mens kan daarop soek.

2. SUNsearch

Within a electronic databases you will find the bibliographic information as well as the abstract of an article. In some instances, the full text article is attached as well. The formats are either pdf or html and in some cases, you will have access to both formats. The pdf is always better to use because you will find the actual page numbers of the article as it appears in the hardcopy of the journal

In 'n elektroniese databasis kry jy somtyds net die verwysings en opsomming van die artikel, terwyl ander databasisse die volledige artikel ook verskaf. Dit is gewoonlik in 'n pdf of html formaat en baie keer kry jy toegang tot altwee formate. Die pdf is altyd die beter keuse aangesien dit die regte bladsynommers aandui soos dit in die fisiese tydskrif verskyn.

2. SUNsearch

SFX is a tool provided by the Library Service that creates shortcuts to full-text articles, if available, as well as links to additional Library services. This means that SFX enables the user to link from citations, in our different databases, to full text articles wherever they are available.

Die SFX skakel word verskaf deur die Biblioteekdiens. Dit is 'n kortpad na volteks arikels, indien beskikbaar sowel as skakels tot addisionele Biblioteekdienste. Met ander woorde die gebruiker kan vanaf die bibliografiese verwysing toegang kry tot volteks artikels waar ookal beskikbaar in ons verskillende databasisse.

2. SUNsearch

Peer reviewed articles (or refereed articles) primarily appear in academic, scientific or other scholarly publications and are judged by an impartial panel of two or more experts in the field. The judgment criteria for any peer review article varies depending on the publication and subject matter, but peer reviewers (or referees) primarily focus on ensuring that an article is factually accurate, provides new information in a specified field and meets the proofreading and editorial guidelines of the publication.

Peer reviewed artikels verskyn gewoonlik in akademiese, wetenskaplike of ander navorsingspublikasies en word nagegaan deur 'n onafhanklike paneel bestaande uit twee of drie kenners in die veld. Die kriteria waarvolgens die artikel geëvalueer word verskil van publikasie en onderwerpsveld, maar die paneel fokus gewoonlik daarop dat die inligting feitlik akkuraat is, en dat dit nuwe inligting in die spesifieke veld is. Hulle kyk dan ook dat dit voldoen aan redaksionele en proeflees riglyne van die publikasie.

The Subject as Object: 40 Years of Scholarship

PIETER FOURIE*

Academic Article

ABSTRACT This contribution to the special anniversary edition serves as a framing document, taking a macro view and reflecting on all contributions to Politikon over the past 40 years. Rather than presenting an objective and comprehensive literature review of the entire and disparate corpus of scholarship, this article provides subjective reflections on how the journal and Political Science scholarship have evolved in their operationalisation and presentation of research in South Africa. This is done by contextualising the research as products of their specific time(s), by considering instances of meta-reflection by South African political scientists, and by highlighting remarkable historical and intellectual pointers in the evolution of the kind of scholarship that has been published in this journal. An appeal is made for a closer and more systematic study of South African Political Science (therefore, the subject qua object), and for future scholarship to be undertaken with greater constitutive (self-)awareness.

Retrospect and prospect

In 1973 the Political Science Association of South Africa (PSASA) was established, and in 1974 its Board launched Politikon as the official ‘South African Journal of Political Science’. Prof. C. F. Nieuwoudt of the University of Pretoria

AND narrow a search by retrieving the intersection between topics.

eg: cats AND dogs
will both be pets

OR broadens a search by retrieving either topic. OR is especially important for grouping synonyms.

eg: cats OR dogs would get anything that had either type of pet.

NOT narrows a search by excluding entire categories of information.

eg: cats NOT dogs would exclude things that had dogs even if they also had cats in the article

About e-books

Electronic books are the digital equivalent of conventional books. The book's content is in digital format and requires software to interpret the digital content and display it for the user to read. The software is usually embedded seamlessly in the e-book to facilitate easy reading on a computer screen.

Stellenbosch University Library and Information Service purchases e-books from various publishers, but some publishers sell their e-books to individuals only and do not allow libraries to purchase their books in an electronic format.

Some of the e-books and e-book websites only allow access to a limited number of SU members at the same time. You will get a message that the book is not available and you will have to try again later.

On most, but not all, e-book interfaces, clients can create a free, individual account which will allow the reader to:

- save books to a personal bookshelf from where it can be accessed again at a later stage
- highlight sections and insert notes
- print individual pages
